A Comprehensive Learning Experience for Improving Outsourcing Outcomes

IAOP Education with Elegance - a winning combination

IAOP's three-day COP Master Class and one-day Governance Workshop are geared toward those professionals who have a vested interest in gaining the knowledge needed to ensure successful outcomes in outsourcing projects. With the increase in outsourcing regulations and standards, firms are looking for employees with the capability to design, implement and manage those outsourcing projects with a guaranteed success rate. Combined, these courses combine to provide the training needed to understand these regulations, delivered by top IAOP Authorized Trainers who are COPs and industry experts, at venues that reflect the pinnacle of excellence demanded by top industry professionals.

IAOP believes a sophisticated and serene executive facility is the key for participants to stay focused and obtain the information needed for success. This is why we are particular about the venues in which we hold corporate and professional development trainings in North America.

In 2010, the COP Master Class expanded its reach into Toronto, Canada, with the Kingbridge Conference Centre, and in 2011 we introduced a new, more central location at The Inverness Hotel and Conference Center in Denver, Colorado. IAOP is happy to announce its new venue, which will hold a COP Master Class and Outsourcing Governance Workshop in 2014 - Dolce Atlanta-Peachtree Hotel & Conference Center in Atlanta, Georgia.

Following is an inside look at each of the North American venues scheduled to hold the COP training in 2014:

Dolce Atlanta-Peachtree Hotel & Conference Center, Atlanta, Georgia

Located just 25 miles from the Atlanta airport, Dolce Atlanta-Peachtree is secluded on a pristine 40 acres, in the quaint town of Peachtree City. With flowers in bloom and Georgia pines surrounding this executive retreat, it's the perfect east coast setting for springtime.

Kingbridge Conference Centre, Toronto, Canada

Kingbridge's philosophy is all about stimulating the minds of professionals and allowing them to feel comfortable in thinking outside the box. It is a place to challenge your boundaries and explore new ways of thinking. This is one of the reasons IAOP chose this secluded setting; just 30 minutes from the Toronto Pearson International Airport, its many amenities and paramount business facilities are perfect for the interaction of industry professionals.

Set outside historic King City, just north of Toronto, Kingbridge offers outstanding accommodations for the business executive, including high-speed wireless Internet access, with comfortable work stations for those whose workday doesn't end with the class.

Mountain bike rides and nature trails offer a different way for groups to brainstorm about their project ideas and work in a stimulating environment instead of sitting in the classroom all day. Another great area for study groups is the Connections Dining Room, which features an open kitchen concept that allows attendees to continue classroom discussion during meals.

All meals are included in the course pricing - Kingbridge offers a great selection of globally influenced buffets, with many options for those with specific dietary needs.

It is important for IAOP attendees to learn, network and understand the class material taught each day, but no one can take it all in if they feel stressed and overworked. Unwind after each class day and in between group meetings by enjoying the fitness center, sauna, swimming pools, tennis courts and much more.

It's true that attending the COP Master Class and Governance Workshop doesn't allow much time for play, but Kingbridge has found a way to combine work and relaxation, offering many creative options for groups to gather, prepare materials and get work done.
